Understanding Prepositions: In, On, Under

Prepositions are words that link nouns, pronouns, or phrases to other words within a sentence, often indicating relationships related to time, place, or direction. The prepositions "in," "on," and "under" specifically describe spatial relationships. Understanding their correct usage is essential for clear communication and grammatical accuracy.

Definition and Usage of "In"

The preposition "in" is used to indicate that something is inside a confined space or within boundaries. It suggests enclosure or inclusion within an area, container, or volume. For example, "The books are in the box" illustrates that the books are contained within the box.

Definition and Usage of "On"

"On" denotes that an object is in contact with a surface. It implies positioning atop or upon something else without enclosure. For instance, "The keys are on the table" shows that the keys rest upon the surface of the table.

Definition and Usage of "Under"

The preposition "under" indicates a position below or beneath something else. It conveys that an object is lower than or covered by another object. An example is "The cat is under the chair," meaning the cat is located beneath the chair.
